FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS.

Does BELOTERO® Revive treatment or injection hurt?

Slight discomfort may be experienced during the injection of the filler into the skin, but your healthcare practitioner can help manage any discomfort.

How long does the treatment take?

During the treatment session, the product is injected into the specific areas of the skin to be treated, typically using a very fine needle or cannula. The length of the treatment is individualised and will depend on the particular area being treated. Your healthcare practitioner will be able to answer any specific treatment queries you may have.

How many treatments will I need?

From one to three treatments of BELOTERO® Revive, 4 weeks apart, depending on your skin quality. The effects of BELOTERO® Revive can last for up to 9 months, depending on factors such as the number of treatments, treated area, skin type, condition, lifestyle, and age. The filler is completely broken down within the skin over a period of months and is reversible with the use of an enzyme called hyaluronidase.

Who is BELOTERO® Revive suitable for?

BELOTERO® Revive is intended to treat early signs of photodamaged skin via rehydration of dry and very dry skin and smoothening of superficial fine lines.

What can I expect after the treatment?

You may experience some redness or lumps straight after the treatment but these should resolve after a few days.

You should notice an overall improvement in your skin over the subsequent treatments.

If you have any questions or concerns about your treatment, please contact your healthcare practitioner.
